

References Chapter 6

- [6.1] The City of Brooklyn, sketched and drawn on stone by C.R. Parsons, Currier & Ives (New York, 1879: Library of Congress web,
- [6.2] Transcript of Lain's 1879-80 Brooklyn Directory: Brooklyn Genealogy Information Page
- [6.3] Atlases of New York city, Vol. 1. Plate, C. [Map bounded by Lafayette Ave., Broadway, Howard Ave., Madison Ave., Stuyvesant Ave...., 1880] New York Public Library: Digital Gallery Image ID: 1627461.
- [6.4] Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brooklyn Explained,
- [6.5] Record of American and Foreign Shipping, Mystic Seaport Digital Library 1876, 1877, 1878, 1884
- [6.6] Photograph in album 1976.1.163 (John F. Leavitt album #5, 3-masted schooners); 3-masted schooner WILLIAM H. JONES (built 1867, Wilmington, DE); photograph from Francis E. Bowker. Mystic Seaport Collection: 1976.1.163.30
- [6.7] The New York Times, 7 SEP 1887
- [6.8] 1897-98 Lain's Brooklyn Directory p. 431
- [6.9] bklyn-genealogy-info.com lists Long Island- Notable Families Nassau & Suffolk Counties. Neil Falkenburg is listed here (the find in page box does not appear to work, simply use find in your browser or scroll down the page to find Neil Falkenburg. "Dr. Falkenburg was born in Brooklyn on July 1, 1897, the son of Ernest and the late Charlotte (Elmore) Falkenburg. His father is a retired pharmacist. Neil Falkenburg was graduated from Boys' High School, Brooklyn, and in 1922 from Columbia University, where he took the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In 1925 he was graduated from the university's College of Physicians and Surgeons with the degree of Doctor of Medicine.
- [6.10] New York City Architecture: Boys' High School